

WERNER & COFFEY TO MAKE PLANS FOR NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

Sequoia Trustees Make Selection After Careful Examination of Preliminary Plans

On Monday last the trustees of Sequoia Union High School district met and selected the firm of Werner & Coffey of San Francisco as the architects for the new high school building that will cost between $300,000 and $400,000. It will be erected in the Plaza property purchased some months ago at a cost of $80,000.

Eight architects presented plans, many of which were very creditable. The plans of Werner & Coffey and W. H. Weeks were the only ones considered by the board when it came to a vote on a selection. The vote on these plans was as follows: Werner & Coffey—T. O. Heydenfeldt, D. E. O'Keefe and Edward Greeley.

W. H. Weeks—L. P. Behrens and W. A. Emmett.

Professor Hart of the state university was selected by the board to check up the plans. He is an expert school architect, a graduate of Columbia University and an authority in school architecture. The architects will at once begin to draw up the detail plans so that work on the construction of the building will begin March 1.

Alfred I. Coffey is one of the best known architects in the state. He has erected numerous buildings in Redwood City, among them the high school building, the grammar school building, the First National Bank, the Pittsburg building. He also was the architect of the Menlo Park grammar school and several grammar school buildings in San Mateo. He has a splendid record. For a number of years he was architect for the city and county of San Francisco.

His partner, Carl Werner, is considered to be one of the best authorities on school architecture in the country. He is a graduate of the Boston School of Technology. At that institution he won the first prize and was given a scholarship in one of the prominent schools of architecture in Paris, from which institution he graduated with high honors. Both architects will give the plans their entire attention.

New $40,000 Congregational Church

BEGAN WITH TWELVE MEMBERS—NOW ABOUT 500

The First Congregational church building on the corner of Washington and Webster streets will soon be replaced by a magnificent structure, modern in every way, and when completed will be one of the finest and most attractive church buildings on the peninsula. The members of the congregation have accepted plans and have subscribed the necessary funds for the structure so that the building will begin about March 1. It will cost in the neighborhood of $40,000. It will have a frontage of 90 feet on Washington street and 110 feet on Webster street. The material for interior finish will be the very best. The church will have a seating capacity of 600. There are to be church parlors, an up to date Sunday school class room, headquarters of the young people's societies. The exterior will be constructed of brick. It will be fireproof and have all the latest church conveniences. A committee has been busily engaged in working out the plans and has completed them in a manner satisfactory to all.

The present building was erected in 1862, but has been added to from time to time to accommodate the increasing demands of the church for accommodations. The new edifice when finished will be one that will reflect credit upon the religious spirit of Redwood City.

History of the Church
In January of 1861 services looking to the organization of a Congregational church were first held in the town, the upper story of the court house, as it was before the earthquake of 1868, being then the place of assembly, and Rev. J. S. Zelle being the minister. He conducted services here continuously to 1863, when he left the state. It was during his residence in Redwood City that the church was organized and recognized by the council on the 24 day of November, 1862. Twelve members united in the organization, all of whom have joined the church triumphant. The church building, the frame of which has been incorporated in the church edifice as it now stands, was begun in Mr. Zelle's pastorate and dedicated in the pastorate of Rev. Mr. Pinney (May 29,

THE NEW EDIFICE

1864), who succeeded Mr. Zelle, and Prof. Mooser of Oakland delivered the dedicatory sermon. At the close of Mr. Pinney's pastorate the roll of members had increased to 23. The next pastor was Rev. William C. Bartlett. His pastorate was short by reason of ill health and he resigned in about a year and a half, and for the same reason gave up preaching permanently, and was for years on the editorial staff of the San Francisco Bulletin. There were four additions to the church while Mr. Bartlett was pastor. On the 12th of July, 1867, Rev. R. B. Snowden became pastor, his services continuing until his departure for Honolulu two years later. During these two years 25 united with the church.

In 1865, chiefly through the exertion of the ladies of the congregation, the church parlor, now divided into study and class rooms, was time subsequent.

On January 1, 1885, Rev. W. H. Pascoe became pastor, remaining until 1887. There were 15 additions to the church during this pastorate. The entire enrollment had grown from the original 12 to 178 in 1887.

In April, 1888, Rev. L. D. Rathbone took up the work, the pastorate lasting until July, 1896, during which time 75 were received into membership, some of these being residents of Woodside, where a branch church had been organized, the pastor preaching there each Sabbath afternoon and also conducting mid-week meeting on Wednesday evening. A chapel was built at Woodside which has been in continuous use and was recently turned over to the Home Missionary Society by a vote of this church. It was during this pastorate that the parsonage was built at a cost of $2,375, subscriptions for the same being solicited largely by the pastor. The organ now used was also installed at this time, being purchased with money left to the church by Mr. George H. Kellogg, a former deacon.

On July 8, 1896, Rev. F. H. Maar, became pastor and resigned to accept larger work in Oakland on October 1, 1903. During his pastorate 46 additions were made to the church. In 1898 the auditorium was replaced, papered and painted, also newly carpeted, and the cushions up-holstered at a cost of $500 raised by subscription.

The next pastorate, that of Rev. C. C. Kirtland, began on January 30, 1904, and terminated on April 1, 1912. It was during this pastorate that the church was practically rebuilt. After the earthquake of 1906 a new kitchen was built on and the room formerly used for the kitchen is now used for Sunday school and social purposes. The money was raised largely by subscription, $750 being our share sent by the eastern churches for earthquake damaged churches. During the summer services were held in the Baptist church, which was kindly offered. The church was repaired and built anew and again rededicated on October 6, 1908, the sermon being preached by Rev. William Rader. During this pastorate of eight years 97 were received into the church, making a total enrollment of 443 members to October 1, 1912.

The present pastorate of Rev. C. H. Stevens began on September 1, 1912.

REDWOOD CITY BOY STAR FOOTBALLER

Dudley De Groot, who is a graduate of Sequoia Union High School, played the most consistent game of any Stanford player in the recent football contest between Stanford and the University of California. Dudley played center for the Cardinals and the San Francisco Bulletin on Monday printed his picture and said that he was the probable captain of next year's Stanford team. All of the sporting writers have given him the place of center on the first team of all the Pacific coast teams. He is also a strong contestant for the Stanford unlimited basketball team. The young man is not only a good athlete but is a good student as well.

JUDGE GRIFFIN SPLICES CHINESE COUPLE

Ray Griffin officiated at the marriage of My Heo Mock and Elsie Dunn on Tuesday. It was the second matrimonial venture for the girl, who is only 17 years old. When she appeared at the office of the county clerk to get the marriage license she was accompanied by her father and mother. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dunn of San Francisco, who gave their consent. Judge Griffin thought he recognized the bride and asked her if she had not been married before. In response to questions it was learned that she had been married on December 18, 1920, to Charles R. Riggett of San Francisco, her age at the time being given as 18. This marriage was annulled in San Francisco because the girl was under age. My Heo Mock runs a grocery in Palo Alto and also one in Mayfield. He is one of the influential tong men in San Francisco and has been more or less in the limelight because of this connection. A few years ago he was charged with complicity in one of the tong war casualties, arrested and brought to Redwood City. No evidence could be produced that supported the charge, so he was released. They are to live in Mayfield.

NURSE SURVIVES WARS DIES SUDDENLY ON ROAD

Miss Ida H. Laswell, a trained nurse at the Welber Hospital, near Auburn, Placer county, died, stricken with heart trouble, Wednesday, November 30. Miss Laswell had been in her usual good health and was returning from a walk after red berries when she died.

She was a native of Searsville and was the daughter of Mrs. Ellen Laswell and the late William Laswell of this city. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. O. Orchard and Mrs. A. Ryan of San Francisco, and three brothers, Robert, William and Dr. B. L. Laswell of Plumas county.

Miss Laswell grew to womanhood here and was beloved by all who knew her. Although she left Redwood City when she went to San Francisco to train she has since spent considerable time here visiting her family. She was a veteran of the Spanish-American war, the Philippine insurrection, and the Boxer campaign in China.

The funeral service will be held at the home of Mrs. A. Ryan, 109 Douglas street, San Francisco, this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

FINE OUTING AMONG WELL-PRESERVED BIRDS

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Genocchio of 130 Oakdale avenue, Wellesley Park, have just returned from a most delightful hunting expedition as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Douglas of San Francisco at the exclusive duck and geese preserves of the Sacramento Outing Club, located 75 miles north of the capital city. Mr. Genocchio is not only an enthusiastic sportsman but an excellent wing shot and has long enjoyed an enviable reputation as a most successful hunter of wild ducks. Mr. Douglas, who is a member of the club, has the reputation of swinging a twelve-gauge shotgun into line with a feathered beauty with deadly accuracy. Both sportsmen brought down the limit of ducks, principally mallard, and the number the law allows of speckled breasted brandt. The ladies of the party, who viewed the shooting from the porch of the sumptuous clubhouse, were so elated over the results that two expensive small gauge shotguns had been added to the equipment of the successful Nimrods for the use of Mrs. Genocchio and Mrs. Douglas on their next trip into the northland in quest of wild water fowl.

JOY FOR KIDS AT PIGEON POINT—SCHOOL BURNED

The schoolhouse at Pigeon Point in the southern end of San Mateo county was burned to the ground early Tuesday morning. It is supposed that the building caught fire from coals left in the stove by some campers, as two young men from Pescadero who were abalone fishing at an early hour saw a light in the school and looking in saw someone sleeping on the floor by the stove.

The trustees of the school are negotiating with G. H. Wideman for the rental of the dance hall on his property near Pescadero, which they hope to use as a school until other arrangements can be made for the pupils.

STAGE TO RUN FROM COLMA TO HALFOON BAY

Permission has been granted to James W. Gray by the state railroad commission to run a stage line from Colma to Halfmoon Bay by way of San Mateo. All traffic will be for the whole trip, no pickups being allowed en route.

Gray wanted to operate a freight service from San Mateo to Halfmoon Bay, but his petition for this purpose was dismissed without prejudice.

DESTROYER ON ROCKS

The United States navy destroyer De Long, with 110 officers and men aboard, went on the rocks a mile and a half south of Halfmoon Bay early Thursday morning. The night was excessively foggy and the De Long was progressing at very slow speed when the crash came. A wireless message for help was sent out and the Golden Gate life saving crew went to the rescue and took off the stranded sailors by shooting a life line to them. It is hoped that the vessel may be taken off the rocks and saved.

A small performance is better than a large promise.

The will provides that she may accept a lump sum of $250,000 in settlement. The Kohl's were separated at the time the agreement was executed. The acceptance of the $250,000 must be within 180 days after the death of decedent. The will closes as follows:

RED CROSS MEETING

The annual meeting of the Redwood City Chapter of the American Red Cross was held Monday night in the office of the central grammar school. Reports of officers were read and approved, after which officers for the coming year were elected as follows: Chairman, A. E. Monteth; vice chairman, Mrs. A. Kincaid; secretary, Mrs. Mary Winter; treasurer, L. P. Behrens. The entire board of directors was re-elected. The report of Miss Cora E. Clute, district nurse, was presented and showed that Miss Clute is very active in carrying on her good work. Cases were reported by Mr. Monteth in which Miss Clute has done wonderfully fine work and one can with difficulty realize that there is so much need of help in a civilized community as the report showed was being given here.

HENRY ELMES ESTATE

The last will and testament of Henry Elmes was filed in the county clerk's office on Thursday by Sarah E. Elmes, the surviving widow. The will was executed on March 24, 1895. Mr. Elmes died at Belmont on July 10, 1919. The estate consists of real property at Belmont and Sunny Slope, near Belmont, valued at $2,500. Mrs. Elmes has applied for letters testamentary. R. H. McGowan of Belmont is her attorney.

HALF MILLION IN BUILDINGS TO START THE NEW YEAR

Busy Season for Building Trades Indicated by Plans So Far Announced

Redwood City is on the eve of a big building boom. Before spring there will be upward of half a million dollars' worth of work in progress.

Right after the first of the year work will be started on the $40,000 two-story structure to be built at the corner of Broadway and Winslow street by D. R. Stafford, the Broadway grocer. This will be a splendid structure with offices and stores, all modern and strictly up to date.

The high school trustees have selected their architect and he will at once prepare plans for a modern high school building to cost between $300,000 and $400,000. It will be erected on one of the most attractive sites in the state. Work on this structure will begin early in spring. It will, without doubt, be one of the finest high school buildings in the state and a credit to the progress and liberality of the taxpayers of Sequoia Union High School district.

The Methodist Episcopal church will on March 1 begin the erection of a $25,000 edifice on the recently acquired property of the church on Brewer street in Redwood Highlands. This building will be modern in every detail.

James M. Eva is to erect a costly home in Redwood Highlands to cost $25,000. J. E. Esnor is to construct a $10,000 home also in Redwood Highlands.

Dr. Schler, proprietor of the Canyon Sanitarium, is to build a $20,000 home in Redwood Highlands.

Other large homes are to be erected in that choice residential district during the approaching spring.

Work on the cement plant will in all probability commence in the early spring. Thousands of dollars are to be spent in development work and in the construction of buildings. With these activities in progress you may watch Redwood grow.

"THE TORCH" LIGHTS EYES LITERARY FOLK

Mrs. Eugenie H. Schroeder, a former resident of Redwood City, and a society leader, has just issued a book of poems called "The Torch" which is receiving the attention of literary folks. It is dedicated to Mrs. A. W. Scott, a friend of the author. The poems are well written and show much literary merit and care in preparation.

Mrs. Schroeder is a highly intellectual woman, known well for her prose and poetry throughout the United States. It was unofficially said that she is a graduate of Laurel Hall, a young ladies' seminary that flourished many years ago near San Mateo and presided over by Mrs. Buckmaster. Young ladies from all parts of the state came here for their education. Laurel Hall in those days was considered the best educational institution in the state. It was discontinued many years ago.

JURY RETURNS VERDICT $20,000 FOR MRS. NOCE

A jury in the superior court Wednesday afternoon awarded damages to Mrs. Clara Noce in the sum of $20,000. The suit was brought by her against the United Railroads to recover damages in the sum of $25,000 for the death of her husband, David Noce. In her complaint she alleged negligence on the part of the company. Ten of the jury favored $20,000, while one voted for $10,000 and another for $25,000.

David Noce was instantly killed on July 22, 1919, when the truck which he was driving was struck by a car of the defendant corporation. Noce was a vegetable gardener. At the first trial of the suit the jury awarded Mrs. Noce $50,000 damages. On a motion for a new trial Judge Buck reduced the amount to $25,000 and the defendant appealed to the appellate court. Here the decision was reversed and the case sent back to the superior court for a new trial.

The plaintiff is represented by A. P. Black, Louis Ferrari and Walter Drobisch of San Francisco, while the railroad is represented by Ross & Ross of Redwood City.

The United Railroads will appeal the case. Its attorneys have asked for a stay of execution for ten days.

At the first trial Mr. Levinsky, a blind attorney, represented Mrs. Noce. A few weeks ago he was killed in an automobile accident while motoring to his summer home near San Rafael.

Mrs. Noce appeared at the trial each day accompanied by her two pretty little daughters, dressed neatly, and their conduct and manner during the trial was such that the court complimented the children.

CASH ROLLING IN AT TAX COLLECTOR OFFICE

Yesterday the county tax collector's office looked like a big clearing house with money rolling in on all sides. The mails brought vast sums, while taxpayers stood at the counter waiting for their tax bills. The pretty and charming young girls in the office were somewhat ruffled with the unusual rush of business, but they are all able and efficient and were fully capable of overcoming the difficult task.

Taxes will become delinquent Monday evening next at 6 o'clock. Tax Collector A. McSweney will keep his office open this afternoon for the accommodation of those who desire to pay their taxes.

Mr. McSweney has done everything within his power to accommodate the property holder and has made it as agreeable for him as possible.

FINE OF $500 FOR AUTO DRIVING WHILE INTOXICATED
Mrs. Jane C. Peabody was sentenced to pay a fine of $500 by Judge Buck in the superior court on Wednesday morning for driving an automobile on the highway while under the influence of liquor. She was convicted on the charge by a jury in the superior court last week. She paid the fine and went her way.

BUILD THAT BRIDGE

The way to become prosperous is to use money wisely. Redwood City, San Mateo, South San Francisco and other peninsula business men know that if the Dumbarton bridge is in operation it will mean an increase of business in all lines. It cannot be built until a survey shall have been made to determine the exact site. It is necessary for private capital to advance the money for this survey. A number of men with public spirit have volunteered to put up part of the money, with the proviso that it be repaid from whatever funds may be provided later for the bridge itself. They are not sticking at the return feature. They want the enterprise to get under way speedily.

As things stand now the county supervisors have referred the matter to the district attorney, who is making a careful study of the questions involved. An immediate report is wanted. If the county cannot undertake to handle the money subscribed privately, then a syndicate can be formed to handle the preliminary features. A committee from the chamber of commerce could take it in hand and get things moving.

This thing of careful planning and all that reminds one of an experience in railroad where a freshet had destroyed a bridge. It interrupted travel and the president of the road went to investigate, taking with him one of his best engineers and a practical railroad builder. The engineer looked over the situation and gave his opinion that it would require a month or so to prepare plans, then several more months to build the bridge. During all that time traffic would be suspended along that important line. The railroad president was mad. He wanted that bridge replaced somehow in the shortest possible time. Turning to the builder, who was not a college graduate but an energetic, practical genius, he demanded:

"How soon can you run trains over that washout?"

"Two or three days," was the answer. "Well get busy. You can have all the men and money you need, but put it through quick."

The builder didn't stop to calculate stresses, bore for pier foundations or anything else of that sort. He turned loose gang after gang at piling up rock to make rough piers; he sent gangs into the hills to chop timber for short spans and ties; day and night he worked, driving himself and the men working with him. In three days he had a rough bridge up that would carry the trains. Of course it was replaced later by a permanent bridge, but it served the purpose and earned for the road a big lot of cash.

What is needed in this Dumbarton bridge matter is some of that spirit. Caution is all well enough when it comes to the permanent bridge, but with the preliminary work it will do no one any harm to have a little rough stuff, so to speak. If those favoring the bridge are willing to put up money for a survey it should be made at once. Then the county can know what to do in making plans for financing the project. But to delay and palaver forever on preliminary is a waste of time. Build that Dumbarton bridge now.

FORD'S ECONOMY

In an interview in the New York Times Henry Ford is quoted as advancing for one solution of the railroad problem the idea that the railroads "throw away their stocks and bonds."

It is difficult to imagine for what purpose Mr. Ford made such a suggestion as this, for he certainly did not intend the proposition seriously nor could he very well have expected the public to take him seriously.

The stocks and bonds of railroads do not belong to the railroads. They belong to individuals who own them, just as they own tangible personal property, notes and mortgages given by their neighbors, insurance policies and liberty bonds. If it is proper for a railroad to "throw away its stocks and bonds" why can not the government remove its great burden of debt by "throwing away the liberty bonds?"

Some months ago, according to the newspapers, Mr. Ford was owing something like eighty million dollars to bankers in New York. Those bankers held obligations given by his company—obligations that occupied the same relation to the Ford Motor Company that the bonds of a railroad have toward the railroad property. If Mr. Ford thinks it a practicable method of settling the obligation to "throw away the bond," why did he not relieve himself of the eighty million dollars of debts by throwing the notes away?

Railroads were built with funds supplied by individuals who received shares of stock as a written evidence of the amount of their share in the property. Most of the extensions and improvements have been made with funds raised by the issuance of the bonds which are in the nature of a mortgage to secure the loan. These stocks and bonds were exchanged for good hard money—the hard earned savings of the people who made the investment. What kind of a repudiation, what kind of dishonor is it Mr. Ford proposes when he suggests that the railroads "throw away their stocks and bonds?"

ISSUES NOT INVOLVED

Democrats profess to find much encouragement in the winning of a majority in the legislature of Kentucky, which had been made Republican by the election of 1919 and the winning by Democratic candidates of a few seats in other legislatures and mayoralities in several cities. These elections, not involving national politics in any way and held in an off year, are really indicative of very little. Local issues and the personalities of the rival candidates were the dominating influences in determining the vote. The only recent elections which have had a national significance were the election of a senator in New Mexico and the election of a representative in Massachusetts.

The election of a member of the national legislative body inevitably involves national issues and, except under unusual circumstances, the national issues are dominating. In these particular instances the campaigns were conducted in such a way as to make the outcome solely an expression on national policy. In both instances Republican candidates were elected and by pluralities practically the same as those given in 1920.

No Republican familiar with national politics has any idea that the Republican party will be able to retain permanently its present majority in the senate and house of representatives. The election of 1920 has never been construed to be an accurate indication of the division of public sentiment in the United States as between Democrats and Republicans. The overwhelming defeat of the Democratic nominee in 1920 was largely a repudiation of Wilsonism and a rejection of the league of nations, which was a foreign rather than a domestic issue. Some of the 7,000,000 votes which made up the plurality against the Democratic nominee were the votes of Democrats who could not stand for the socialistic tendencies of their party under the leadership of McAdoo, Wilson, Palmer, et al. Under a sane leadership some of those Democrats would undoubtedly again vote the Democratic ticket. Others will continue in the Republican ranks, but it may very reasonably be expected that ordinary conditions and with ordinary issues involved the Democrats would poll a larger vote than they did in 1920.

It is not to be expected, by any means, that the reaction which is sure to come will be strong enough to enable the Democrats to win a victory. The people of the United States are in harmony with the principles and teachings of the Republican party. This is demonstrated by the fact that since Lincoln's time, covering 13 presidential terms, only four terms have been filled by Democrats. The election of Wilson in 1913 was not due to support of Democratic principles by a majority of the voters, but was brought about solely by a division in the Republican ranks which put two Republican candidates in the field who together received a majority vote of the electoral college. Wilson's second election was brought about by the false but persuasive plea that "he kept us out of war." Only twice since the civil war, and that in the two elections of Grover Cleveland, has the country given its support to Democratic policies on the issues as presented by the platforms.

Quite likely some congressional districts normally Democratic were carried by the Republicans by narrow margins may return to the Democratic column. The number of these, however, will be few. Barring any grievous mistakes, which are only remotely possible and not in the least probable, the Republicans will retain control of both houses of congress for many years to come and will certainly elect their candidate to the presidency for a dozen years at least, and probably longer.

HELPING HAYS

Manifestly, one of the mottoes of the postmaster general is "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." Mr. Hays took charge of the post office department at a time when it had a record for losses by highway robbery. He took hold of the problem in a very vigorous manner, with a determination to put an end to the almost continuous and successful holdups of the postal employees not only on trains but on mail wagons in cities. He offered a reward for the capture of a mail robber dead or alive and also armed the railway mail clerks with rifles and revolvers. But this proved not effective, apparently for the reason that men not trained in the use of arms cannot be quickly taught to make effective use of them. To be "quick on the draw" is an absolute essential in a hand-to-hand combat with a desperado and that sort of quickness is the result of long practice. Whatever may be the explanation, the new plan did not stop the robberies and, in fact, one of the most unprecedented proportions took place lately. Mr. Hays has now secured the co-operation of the war and navy departments and will place armed marines in charge of transfers of valuable mail. This is a move in the right direction. A few dead mail robbers will be an effective lesson to all others who are disposed to get a living by stealing from the public instead of working for it.

As the San Carlos speedway nears completion it is apparent that the Stanford stadium is to have a close rival in the matter of drawing the crowds to the peninsula. As various events are staged in the two big structures competitive sets of attendance figures will be interesting. Either one will be a forceful argument in favor of speeding up the construction of the Dumbarton bridge and the parallel peninsula highway. The two together will double the convincing power of the argument.

The best way to retain friends is to give them temporary rests from your presence.

INCREASE WATER RATES FOR SAN CARLOS

A schedule of domestic water rates for San Carlos was established Tuesday by the railroad commission upon application of Fred H. Drake, agent for the Mercantile Trust Company of San Francisco. The new rates are an increase of 22 1/2 cents per 100 cubic feet, with a minimum charge of $1. these rates being practically the wholesale charges of the Spring Valley Water Company, the source of supply, and no provision for losses in transit, cost of maintenance of the distributing system or for collections.

As the water company is an adjunct to a real estate promotion of a tract only partially developed the commission points out that full return cannot be allowed at this time. The schedule established is as follows:

Monthly minimum charges for metered use: For 1/4-inch and 1/2-inch meters, $1.50; for 1-inch meter, $2.50; for 1 1/2-inch meter, $3.75; for 2-inch meter, $5.

Monthly quantity rates: For use between 0 and 3,000 cubic feet, per 100 cubic feet, 40 cents; all used over 3,000 cubic feet, per 100 cubic feet, 35 cents.

MENLO PARK NEWS

The following letter from a number of the property owners in Menlo Park was recently forwarded to Supervisor John MacBain. It explains itself:

"Menlo Park, November 16, 1921.
—Hon John MacBain, Supervisor of San Mateo County, Menlo Park, California.—Dear Sir: The undersigned, representing residents and property owners in and in the vicinity of the Coleman tract, Menlo Park, California, desire to earnestly assure you of their grateful appreciation of the recent improvement secured through your action and made under your direction and supervision, of Menlo avenue. The improvement was greatly needed and has been thoroughly and carefully done, and we sincerely thank you therefor.

The improvement also demonstrates your careful and wise consideration for your constituents and the general good and betterment of the county.

"Everyone concedes that the presence of good roads in a county does more than any other one thing to bring it to the favorable attention of the public, to increase its population and secure a desirable class of residents."

The letter is signed by P. H. Lyon, George W. Brooks, Charles H. Williamson, Charles A. Shurtliff, William Hagedorn, and John E. Newman as members of a committee.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. C. Hahn motored to Del Monte during the week to spend Thanksgiving at that delightful place. They were accompanied by their little daughter.

A baby boy was born last week to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Ahlert on Mills avenue.

The Menlo Park theater opens on show nights at 7:45. Don't be mistaken in the hour. This evening the program is "The Hope Diamond Mystery," "A Good Westerner," "A Lone Hand," "News." The matinee for children tomorrow afternoon will be "Snow White," a beautiful fairy tale, and a good comedy. Tomorrow evening will witness starring Owen Moore in "Chicken in the Case," a laughable comedy. None should miss this show. Come and have a good laugh. It will do you good.

Several parcels of property on Oak Grove avenue were sold this week, which demonstrates the activity of the real estate business in Menlo Park. Mrs. L. Brogt has sold one of her houses, the old Dougherty place, to a local party who will occupy it December 1. Mr. Reynard will move to San Mateo, where he is engaged in the plumbing business. William H. Fitzhugh has donated $50 to the fire department in appreciation of the good work done by the department in putting out a fire on his property recently at Runnymede, which place is outside the Menlo Park fire district. This money will be placed in the benefit fund for the use of disabled firemen.

Edward Doyle, a former old time resident of Menlo Park, came up from Gilroy during the week to greet friends. Mr. Doyle is a prominent orchardist of the southern city. His boyhood was spent at Portola.

The first rain of the season began falling Monday night and continued until Tuesday morning. The total rainfall was half an inch. This was acceptable, but considerable more is needed.

Henry Payot, who died in San Francisco on Monday, was the beloved father of Mrs. Walter H. Linforth. Mr. Payot for many years was in the wholesale stationery business in San Francisco and at one time was a supervisor. He often visited at the Linforth home here and was quite well known on the peninsula. Payot was born in South Carolina. He traveled much before settling down in San Francisco and was considered an authority on Japan, a favorite lecture subject with him on his return. Following service on the board of supervisors he became a member of the board of education. Surviving relatives are Mrs. Payot, Mrs. Henrietta Priant, Mrs. Louise Curtis and Mrs. Josephine Linforth and a son, Lee Payot.

The Y. M. C. A. building located on the O'Keefe tract at Ravenswood has been rented to Michael Golden, the showman who recently took over the Palmer Brothers' show that was stranded recently at Palo Alto. The animals are located on the Donohoe tract near by. There are 50 men connected with the concern and they will winter there and rehearse their parts and train their animals for the circus that will start on the road at the beginning of March. The Y. M. C. A. building will be used as the office of the company and also for the manufacture of robes for the men and women of the circus. Mr. Golden would like to make permanent winter quarters here, but finds the price of land rather high. There is a big event soon to occur at the menagerie. A mother lion is soon to give birth to cubs and these will be a big attraction for the circus on its tour of the country.

W. E. Dale arrived here from his boyhood home in England last Tuesday. Mr. Dale left here six months ago, going direct to his former home, which he left many years ago. He was met by his aged father, brothers and sisters. He arrived in the United States some time ago and toured the large cities of the country before coming to Menlo Park. Mr. Dale saw many places and was in numerous climates, but is glad to get back to the beautiful sunshine of Menlo Park.

Last Monday was alumni day at St. Patrick's Seminary and the day was also the Feast of the Presentation, both events being duly observed by the faculty and students. Many priests, former students at the institution, as well as others, came from different sections of the state to participate in the celebration. A high mass celebrated in the morning had Bishop Keane of Sacramento as celebrant and Archbishop Hanna presiding. About 50 clergymen were present. It was a big day at the seminary. A dinner was served in the afternoon to the visitors. All the seminarians enjoyed the holiday.

Frank Thomas O'Brien, secretary at the Knights of Columbus hut at the base hospital, was united in marriage to Miss Lucille A. Willis, an employee of the institution, Thursday noon. The ceremony was performed in the chapel in the Knights of Columbus building by Father O'Hearn. It was a quiet affair, only relatives attending. After a short honeymoon the young couple will occupy the Crane cottage here.

WHY BRIDGE THE RAY

Editor Times-Gazette: To the unprejudiced observer driving along the state highway before and after the recent football game at the Stanford stadium there was only one answer, and to the builders, owners and patrons of the magnificent stadium it must have suddenly dawned upon them that a bridge at that point would have relieved the congestion and is actually necessary in order to handle the traffic from north, south, east and west of Oakland. It was not only demonstrated but actually proved that no ferry system will ever be able to handle the number of automobiles which will visit the colossal amphitheater from all points of the Sacramento, San Joaquin, Monterey and Santa Clara valleys and after enjoying themselves there will also visit the metropolis of the west, our northern neighbor, San Francisco. It therefore behooves the business men, merchants, property owners and citizens of San Francisco that they lend a helping hand to their southern neighbors of San Mateo and Santa Clara counties in building a bridge which will not only be a public benefit, but will also be a success from a financial standpoint.

I am writing the above from my own personal observations along the highway Saturday from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. The number of machines passing here to and from Oakland was something awful. They had to come by way of San Jose.

EMMETT RUSSELL.

Mark A. McCann, the realty broker, reports three more sales in the Selby tract. He says there is a great and growing demand for property in this choice tract. The sales made this week are two 2-acre tracts for Frederick Kempff to James E. Hare and J. W. Correll and two acres for P. W. Selby to James W. Colliers.

Mrs. Ella Young, a prominent resident of San Jose, has sold her extensive holdings there and is here on a visit to her sister, Mrs. D. K. Frasier of this city. Mrs. Young recently purchased the Toothaker home in North Palo Alto, which she is remodeling and developing. Mrs. Young intends to reside there. She is delighted with this locality and contemplates investing in Redwood City realty.

Last Friday night at the Redwood City Woman's Clubhouse a ballroom dance was given under the auspices of Frank McCallum and Newell Sharkey to their friends. It was a delightful affair. The serpentine dance was enjoyed by the throng as well as all the other modern dances. Refreshments were served in the clubhouse.

Miss Martha McKay was recently promoted to the position of chief clerk for the Pacific Gas and Electric Company at its headquarters in Redwood City. Miss McKay will be head of all the clerks in the various branch offices of the company in the county. Miss McKay was given the promotion in recognition of her ability and attention to every detail of the business of her department. She has been employed by the company for the past five years, during which time she has been promoted frequently until she has reached the top of the clerical force of the company on the peninsula. Miss McKay is deserving praise for her energetic labors and brave battle to win success. Having lost her parents when a child, she went forth to make her way, determined to gain a place of prominence in the business world. How well she has succeeded may be seen by her recent promotion.

The fourteen men and two women at the county jail enjoyed a sumptuous Thanksgiving dinner Thursday. Mine Host Sheehan left nothing undone to provide the good things of the season for the prisoners. The menu consisted of roast turkey, mashed potatoes, turtle soup, mince and pumpkin pie, assorted fruits, mixed nuts, ice cream, tea and coffee. James P. Coleman acted as the chef and saw to it that those in his charge wanted for nothing.

Emmett Gunning spent Thanksgiving here with his mother and sister. Postmaster J. V. Swift and one of his assistants, Nelson Paddock, enjoyed their Thanksgiving dinner here.
